Review

This is a very gripping book. I read it twice, and found it convincing and at points very moving. --Joseph C. Hough, Jr., Union Theological Seminary

This autobiography by one of the most distinguished and influential thinkers of our time transcends the boundaries of autobiography. We learn a lot about Rosemary Ruether, but because so much is about her thought, and her thought is so insightful, we learn a great deal about the world in which we have all been living. Ruether is a severe critic of what has been, but she also offers hope for what may yet be. --John Cobb, Claremont School of Theology

Scholars, students, and seekers will all find much to ponder in Rosemary Reuther's intellectual autobiography. Those who know her work and significance will appreciate this intimate disclosure of the ideas, insights, and people that have shaped her scholarship. Those interested in the evolution of a leading feminist thinker will be fascinated by the unfolding story of this exceptional life. And those searching themselves will be instructed and encouraged by her quest for hope and meaning. --William E. Leshner, Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago

MY QUESTS FOR HOPE AND MEANING: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY BY ROSEMARY RADFORD RUETHER PDF

This book is an autobiography tracing Rosemary Radford Ruether's intellectual development and writing career. Ruether examines the influence of her mother and family on her development and particularly her interactions with the Roman Catholic religious tradition. She delves into her exploration of interfaith relations with Judaism and Islam as well. Her educational formation at Scripps College and the importance of historical theology is also a major emphasis. Mental illness has also affected Ruether's nuclear family in the person of her son, and she details the family's struggle with this issue. Finally in this intellectual autobiography, Ruether explores her long concern and involvement with ecology, feminism, and the quest for a spirituality and practice for a livable planet.

ONE OF OUR BEST KEPT SECRETS

By James E. O'Leary

It is puzzling to me that this good book has not received more attention since Dr. Ruether is one of the most outstanding theologians of our time. Thomas Merton called her his personal theologian. The exchange of letters between Merton and Ruether made for a fascinating book all by itself called "At Home in the World." Her books and articles are in the bibliography of this book. There are 30 pages of her extensive and always brilliant publishing record. Today she teaches at Claremont College in California and she has an extensive history of academic prominence. She is more than a "Catholic theologian." She writes about Buddhism, Judaism, Islam and Hinduism with and uncommon sympathy and understanding in this autobiography. She is also more than a feminist theologian although she is often labeled as such. She says "The predominance of feminism in my writing has by no means excluded other areas of thought." Her broad reach extends to liberation theology, ecology and all areas of social justice. Her Foreward quotes a poem by Renny Golden "The Chispa Carrier," whose more famous poem is a haunting eulogy for the three nuns and a lay missionary murdered in El Salvador. This really is a clue as to the rest of the book. I couldn't put it down.

My Quest for Hope and Meaning

By Diane Kenney

This spiritual autobiography fully integrates life experience, inquisitiveness, and academic study ... the result is readers are led down a path which helps you, by looking at RRR's journey, understand your own. It has the qualities of a fine art piece. One I'll return to again and again. And it's fully footnoted!
