In Liz Climo's little world, snakes and rats take selfies together, rabbits and bears share dinner (Carrots? "Man."), and sharks and otters hang out (but the otter has to pretend that the shark's about to eat him if the shark's friends show up). These and a furry and finned array of characters wryly coexist within Liz's clever and funny cartoons. She gives each of her creations an innocence and humanity that inspire delight as well as laughter.

UnBEARably cute. Must have for PUNters, who won't find OTTER book as cute as this one.

By Michel

As I said in the review to her newest book, Climo's comics combine the sheer impossible cuteness of her drawing with wonderful jokes and PUNbelieavable puns. Since her "little world" is about animals behaving like people, it's wonderful to see how she manages to think through what this could imply, given each animal's traits - such as a shark who befriends an otter but can't invite him to come over his house because "I can't breathe under water and your parents keep trying to eat me." Most are light hearted, but she does not avoid joking about shrimps about to be eaten by huge whales, a pig apparently about to be served with salad (which he himself was eating) or suicidal lemmings. I also love how some of the friendships and relationships are inherently impossible, such as the rat who apparently is married to a snake or the above mentioned shark and otter.

And many, many are about nothing else than pure cute!

She also seem sto do some good research to include several different animals, and the way she draws them is something to be admired for itself. Her comics feature animals as diverse as fennec foxes, armadillos and anteaters, which reminds me of Noah's SHark, from the Bible's ARC about Noah and his sons.

Climo does publish many of her comics on her website, which could make buying her books somewhat unnecessary. But I really think her books are worth having, and serve as wonderful gifts - give the power of cute!

Wonderfully Whimsical!

By TW

A splendiferous collection of cute and funny cartoons featuring an assortment of anthropomorphized animals in wonderfully whimsical situations.

Use this book to judge whether or not you and others around you have a sense of humor.

If your name is Sarah and you haven't bought this book yet after seeing my copy then I am taking you off my list of the most awesome people to have ever likened themselves to the noble platypus.

What fun! Gentle but at times cutting humor -- not really for children -- was having a bad day and picked this up and went all the way through it -- by the time I finished I was smiling and had even laughed out loud. I love her illustrations. So good to see the caring attitudes between "friends" -- we need so much more of this in today's world.
